North Carolina Mail Ballot Trends

November 2, 2020

The accompanying graphs document important trends related to absentee ballots in North Carolina. The data were downloaded from the website of the North Carolina State Board of Elections. Request data are based on aggregate weekly reports supplied by the state. Return data are based on daily reports of returned mail ballots, aggregated to correspond with the weekly request reports. Ballots outstanding are calculated by subtracting returned from requested ballots for the relevant time periods.

Note that these statistics pertain to individual ballot requests and returns. A small number of voters may have more than one request or return, because of problems encountered with the ballots. (For instance, if a voter “spoils” a ballot—that is, makes a mistake and asks for a new ballot—both the spoiled and replacement ballot will appear in the dataset.) We have not removed duplicates such as these. Therefore, there are slightly more requests reflected in this document than there are individuals who requested mail ballots.

Each week runs from Sunday to Saturday. The data on the x-axis is the Sunday that begins the week.

Of Note this Week

• As of last week, over 1.4 million mail ballots have been requested. In all of 2016, a total of 106,000 were requested.

• Over 64% of requested ballots have yet to be returned, with a slight decline from previous weeks as many voter opt to vote early in person instead.
  – With just under 1 million ballots returned, the final returns fall approximately 200,000 ballots short of initial projections.

• Registered Democrats turned in over 230,000 mail ballots that Republicans, and over 100,000 ballots more than independents/unaffiliated voters.

• The greatest disparities in non-accepted ballots ultimately arose by race, with Black voters seeing 2.5 times the rejected ballots compared to White voters.
  – Rejection rates by party are effectively identical.
